THIRTY-FIVE CENTS

Briefly

Big-band concert tonight in park

A big-band concert featuring Stan Fornaszewski and his orchestra will be held at 7 p.m. today, July 8, at Wilson Park, 27th Street and Delmar Avenue.

The free concert will also feature vocals by Bonnie Fornaszewski.

Music Under the Stars Thursday

The third concert of Music Under the Stars will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 9, at the Wilson Park stage, 27th Street and Delmar.

The concert will have a patriotic theme and will feature adult and youth choruses along with soloists. Pianist Andrea Malone will perform Scott Joplin's "The Entertainer" while singing in the movie "The Star."

In case of rain, the concert will be held in the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

Madison residents don't want topless and bottomless dancing in their city.

That was the opinion of more than 300 residents who showed up at a public hearing Monday night at City Hall.

Madison resident Wallace DeShon voiced the opposite.

The hearing at the Madison Recreation Center was held by the Legislative Committee of the Madison City Council.

The community heard a hearing at that request of Deja Vu and night club owner Jack Scoville, who requested the city amend its 1986 obscenity ordinance in order to allow live adult entertainment at the location of the Stages nightclub on Illinois 202, north of Madison.

The Madison City Council was scheduled to vote on the proposal Tuesday night. The City Council meeting was moved to Engelbrecht Hall because the expected crowd would not fit in City Hall.

Aside from the lawyer for Deja Vu and Scoville, only one person in attendance expressed support for the proposal. Eight others who had signed the roster in favor of the proposal declined the opportunity to speak at the hearing.

Deja Vu, based in Springfield, Ill., has submitted a plan to lease the nightclub.

According to its proposal, Deja Vu would spend $10,000 to renovate the building before opening a club featuring live adult entertainment.

Deja Vu projects that the new format would bring in a minimum of $5 million in gross annual income. It estimates the $5 million figure would translate into between $100,000 and $150,000 in new revenue annually for the city.

Wallace DeShon, the lone Madison resident to speak in favor of the proposal, said the city needs to seriously consider the club's potential.

"Look out the window, and you can see the tennis courts have no nets. The basketball goals have been taken down," he said. "There were kids out here playing basketball and there's nothing."

DeShon also said the schools need money, but it was pointed out that Stages is not in the Madison School District and thus would not add to school revenue.

John Gitchoff, a Granite City attorney representing Scoville and Stages, said: "The issue here is not morals; it's revenue."

He said while governments of the colonies were organized in America, the first article of their constitutions always set up a government and "article two was

District to meet

The Cloverleaf-East Madison Fire District will meet at 10 a.m. Friday, July 10, at 2022 Fourth St., East Madison.

Tip of the hat

Diane J. Mason of Granite City recently accepted a dual master of arts degree in human resources development and management at Webster University in St. Louis.

While at Webster, Mason was named to the 1991 nomination for the Outstanding Student Award selected by faculty members, based on a student's academic achievement, leadership, school involvement and community service.

Mason graduated from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale in 1989 with a degree in vocational education.

Mason is the daughter of Marie Mason and the late A. Harold Mason.

Venice police procedures on crowds praised

By Martin Richter,
Staff writer

Venice police need to be more aggressive with crowds of young people on Weaver Street, according to Venice Alderman Jim Bennett, who responded to a crowd stampeding after a police work.

"The police shouldn't tolerate this," Fletcher said at a recent City Council meeting. "If a policeman has eight bullets, there should be eight dead people."

It's that simple," he said.

That's a pretty standard 18th century view," according to Clark McPhail, a sociologist at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

He said politicians traditionally view people who gather into mobs as "rowdy, rowdy, rowdy" when actually the members usually represent a cross-section of the community.

I wonder how that alternates with feel when one of those eight dead people is the kid who lives next door or maybe the kid who sings in the choir at church," McPhail said. "Based on the makeup of this type of gathering, that's more than likely going to be the case."

Venice Police Chief James Bennett, who has been criticized by Venice aldermen for not being aggressive enough with a crowd of young people who have gathered when minor arrests on Weaver Street, agreed with McPhail.

"An arrest is just like a fire or a shooting," Bennett said. "Instead of running away from it, people will run to it, just out of curiosity."

He said that despite the crowds on Weaver Street, there has really only been one incident where bystanders actually obstructed an officer from making an arrest.

In that case, Bennett said, a young officer was attempting to make an arrest on the charge of disobeying a lawful command.

He said a young man was standing in front of the officer.

County's Perot leader quits

By Martin Richter,
Staff writer

Lee Presser is out as Madison County coordinator for Rep. Ron Perot's presidential campaign in the wake of a conviction on a trespassing charge related to a shoplifting arrest at Scott Air Force Base.

Presser, 40, of Glen Carbon, wrote a letter Friday to David Charlson, state coordinator of Illinois Citizens for Perot, resigning as Madison County coordinator.

Presser said Monday that he resigned because he didn't want negative publicity about his arrest to hurt Perot's campaign.

"If it were just up to me, I would have fought the whole thing out," he said. "But since it involves Illinois Citizens for Perot and Mr. Perot's name, I felt it was in the best interest that I resign."

Presser said he would like to continue to work for Perot, but was unsure if people working on the campaign would welcome his help. He said other members of the organization had asked him to leave the "Ripper" after his arrest about two weeks ago.

"All I'm out of is just the drudgery of being the head administrator," he said. "I'll let some new folks deal with the personal conflicts and the inner fighting."

Presser may have been ousted if he hadn't resigned. Patti Jukes, Collinsville coordinator for the Perot campaign, said Monday that Presser was definitely going to be replaced.

Jukes said that, after stories about Presser's arrest hit the news media, "they called, they (the campaign) called, (and) Hamilton Jordan even called and said, 'He's out.'

"We're not judging him; we just don't want the organization to be associated with him," she said. "We feel we need to get him replaced as soon as possible."

Jukes said the Madison County organization had slated a meeting for Monday night to pick his successor.

She said Perot volunteers are still working hard, despite having to scrap thousands of signatures after nonresident petitions were found to be improper and suffering a second setback with the Presser incident.

Test project postpones traffic delays on bridge

By Mike Myers,
Staff writer

Motorists expecting the worst on the Poplar Street bridge May day got a pleasant surprise. But the relief from expected delays of as much as an hour is only temporary, said Dennis Hayes, repair project manager for the Illinois Department of Highways.

A project that will replace the asphalt deck of the bridge with polymer concrete was originally scheduled to start Monday, but Hayes said it was delayed until at least Wednesday and may not begin until Thursday.

Hayes said the county department is requiring the contractor to submit a complete test section on Highway 67 prior to beginning the Poplar Street project.

"We want to make sure the contractor has all the equipment and material worked out prior to beginning to block traffic on the bridge," he said. "The contractor got one section down this weekend, but the weather kept it from completing the test section and until we see the entire section in place, we are not going to allow the contractor to begin work on the bridge."

Oz deserves chance to finish career here

Next Tuesday night, in a ceremony that will be quite moving for all symmetry fans, Ozzie Smith will be introduced as the starting shortstop for the National League in baseball's annual All-Star game.

Big deal, you say. The second Tuesday in July, Ozzie Smith is always the All-Star shortstop. Ten games in a row, 11 overall. What's so moving about this one?

Ah, you're taking Ozzie for granted; there's a lot of that going around. The game has been played it well over 100 times. Most of the time, San Diego, where Ozzie began his big league career in 1978. And it could well be his last All-Star game in the Cardinals hat which unless he really gets ticked off, he'll tell the sculptor to use for his plaque at Cooperstown.

We should measure moments by this standard. This is the reason for getting the early news. If you knew the Arch was going to fall sometime this fall, you'd go down and take a long last look at it, wouldn't you? If the animal rights nuts decided to close the Zoo, you'd get out to Forest Park one last time, wouldn't you?

Same with the monument that is Ozzie Smith. In an era in which professional athletes take off and land in different cities with the regularity of Southwest Airlines, Ozzie is in his 11th season in St. Louis. And if you've paid any attention at all, you know he and the Cardinals are at odds about making it all even dozen.

Actually, a dozen is no problem. Less than 13 is the sticking point. Smith wants two years guaranteed, the Birds want to go year-by-year, given that the man will be 38 years old the day after Christmas and says he wants to play until he's 40.

I don't even think about how old I am," Ozzie said one day last week fresh from 15 days on the disabled list with a case of chicken pox. "I got the chicken pox when I was 37 and that's a childhood disease."

You're only as old as you feel, and for a while, Ozzie felt miserable, like a 4-year-old with catfamine lotion all over him. It was good news in a way.

I should point out here that I was the one who brought up the subject with him and his contract. To his credit, Smith hasn't carped about his situation. He's negotiated, he's answered questions, but he hasn't whined. I'd brought it up because when I'd seen him a few weeks earlier and asked how things were going, he'd said, "Just puttin' in my time now." He was working harder, eager, the consummate professional. All he wasn't having any fun at his job. At this stage of this Hall of Fame career, that was a hard thing to hear. Give what he's given to this team and this town, you're entitled to some respect and some fun at your job.

When we last left our hero, he was in position to play as long as he wanted to and I think, "We've done that," he said. "I didn't want someone else telling me it was time to go. To me, 40 was always a kind of magical number. I'd read where most of the shortstops that made the Hall of Fame played until they were 40, so that was in my mind."

It must be said, there is argument here with the way the Cardinals have chosen to handle player salaries. Free agents don't win as many pennants as do good farm systems that grow good arms. Anheuser-Busch has seen the coming Armageddon, the collapse of network TV contracts and the other problems that face baseball beginning next year, and has made the proper preparations.

And yet it seems that it would be wrong to let Ozzie Smith finish his career in another uniform as long as what he's asking for.

The market will determine that. An awful lot of big-time, big-money players will be free agents this fall. The market for a soon-to-be 38 year-old All-Star shortstop has yet to be determined. There's no premium paid or discounts offered for guys who are past their prime.

"I've always done my job," Smith said. "And I'll continue to do my job...whether it's here or somewhere else. What bothers me is the feeling of betrayal more than anything else. I'm a baseball player; I don't claim to be the greatest guy in town, role model or whatever, though I don't think I'm the bad guy. Some people have said I am. I'm a baseball player. Judge me on that."

intravenous drug injections, that BLIs cannot provide, and thus can be reimbursed at a higher rate by insurance carriers.

Mayor Von Deen Cruse said finding a solution for the money-losing ambulance venture "should be someone's priority for the city."

But the city isn't the only ambulance service provider hit by the crunch. Other providers have suffered, too, rather than offering emergency services.

"The slow repayments from the state, sometimes up to 10 months, and from private customers have really hindered medical care. We've had to borrow $60,000 in medical expenses because the state owes us $300,000 in reimbursements. We've made cutbacks in service to survive," said Roger Campbell, president of Campbell Ambulance Services, which serves Madison, Alton, and other cities in southern and central Illinois.

The state of Illinois, which is required to reimburse medical providers within 60 days, is currently three to four months behind in reimbursing providers of services to Public Aid and Medicaid recipients. The state cannot reimburse an average of 50 cents per dollar.

With all the financial difficulties experienced by the state, the money is not available for quick reimbursements.

The main reason for Public Aid paying the bills late is that the money just isn't there for the state to pay. We try to get the claim processed and out to the provider in 30 days. Now it's like 60 days.

"We sympathize with the health providers," said Karl Peiperlberg, spokesman for the IDPA.

Because of the delayed payment schedule, more than 50 providers of medical services in Illinois have gone out of business since January 1992 due to fiscal hardships.

A bill sponsored by Sen. Jim Hooton, a Republican, which in the Illinois Senate's Rules Committee, it requests that Medicaid and Public Aid reimburse health providers on an equal level with Medicare.

an area that was posted "no trespassing" and the officer told the men to move along. But Bennett said when the officer returned a short time later the man was still there.

When the officer attempted to arrest the man, several bystanders intervened between the officer and the trespasser to prevent the arrest, Bennett said, but the officer eventually apprehended the trespasser, and several of his constituents were present.

McPhail said it was a similar incident that started the Watts riot in Los Angeles in 1965. In that case, he said, white police officers were responding to a black man and a crowd gathered. Someone went to get the young man's mother and when the mother arrived, she and the crowd started shouting with police officers ultimately forced the police officers to retreat.

While the police officers were retreating, McPhail said, one of the policemen felt what he believed was an expectant hit him in the back and dove into the crowd to grab the person he thought was responsible, McPhail said, and that set off the riot.

McPhail praised Bennett for his recognition that the crowd is not a single, violent element and for downplaying the crowd as an adversary to police.

People may have a great variety of motives for gathering, but I still think, as I did 25 years ago, that the way the police deal with gatherings is crucial, McPhail said.

"The police are always outnumbered and the mistake police make more often than not is to respond to the entire gathering. When police start reacting to the crowd rather than the incident that brought them there, the police get into trouble."

McPhail said he has looked into hundreds and hundreds of political demonstrations and that "only in the very best organized ones did the crowd represent a single purpose, and then only for a short time."

In a spontaneous street gathering, he said, it would be ludicrous to assume the crowd is united, he said, and that's the reason he thinks it's important for police to retreat.

White police officers were retreating, McPhail said, one of the policemen felt what he believed was an expectant hit him in the back and dove into the crowd to grab the person he thought was responsible, McPhail said, and that set off the riot.

McPhail attributed the one incident to the crowd to inexperienced officers.

"We have several new guys on the street at the same time who don't yet know everybody by name or by sight," Bennett said.

"But if a veteran officer is on the street making an arrest, they'll leave him alone because they know he can turn around and arrest them too."

Once the young officers get some experience on the street and recognize people, we won't have that problem. In fact, we're not seeing it now."

Bennett downplayed the likelihood of the incident being repeated.

"Some people like to exaggerate the problem," he said. "I think they like to read their news papers."

McPhail said the studies of rioting in the 1960s and studies since all indicate to him that the only thing that distinguishes rioters from the non-rioters in their attitudes is that the rioters tended to be unemployed and therefore available to riot.

He said he was pleased that Venice leaders liked the idea.

McPhail, a member of the Garfield Park Alderman Silver Franklin and John Henry Williams considered that to be a "common sense" answer.

"A hundred or so high-powered young people across the country checked out a lot of not so common-sense theories and produced zilch," McPhail said.

Listening to and watching coverage of the Los Angeles riot, he said, he saw the country checked out a lot of not so common-sense theories and produced zilch," McPhail said.

Part of the problem, he said, is that most is most available for anything that happens whether it's riots, car wrecks, celebrations, or ectectra.

"In the summer times with students out of school, the number identifiable for that group obviously increases. Any program that is intended to prevent this kind of incident must address availability."

McPhail said he remembers being struck 20 years ago by the fact that rioters were "clearly not made up of the criminal element" of society. Based on that, he said, increased police action was not indicated.

"Nothing I've seen or read since then has led me to doubt my original conclusion," he said.

Young people across the country are gathering in their own neighborhoods on Weavers Street, McPhail said. And while the police may view the gathering as a problem, McPhail said it is important that police not view the gathered people as the enemy.

"I'm 55 and from the time I was 14 or 15 I've been driving all over the United States. Everywhere I've gone, that's what kids do at night," McPhail said.

"They drive around, wander around, go to the local hangout and hang out. Some communities' pride in family seems to fade away. People may go to the drive-in, some may gather on the street corners. That's just what kids do in the evening."

Cruse vetoes proposal for new stop sign

By Bob State
Staff writer

In a rare move, Granite City Mayor Von Deen Cruse has rejected his veto power.

As promised, Cruse has rejected an ordinance creating a two-way stop intersection at Prism and Prairie avenues.

The City Council passed the ordinance by a unanimous vote June 23. But Cruse said this is another case of the city erecting stop signs for the wrong reasons.

I don't have any problem with a stop sign that meets the requirements and serves the purpose of stopping traffic to serve its purpose to prevent stop sign up to slow traffic down that's not the reason for a stop sign," Cruse said. "Safety is."

Cruse said there are times when stop signs actually create a hazard and can cause traffic accidents.

"We've got way too many stop signs now, and I told the council my position quite a while ago."

Cruse said he and Public Works Director Brett Hanke reviewed the proposed stop intersection and reviewed police reports since 1987 and realized that the sign is unnecessary.

I hope that brings attention to the safety of our city stop signs is long overdue," Cruse said.

I'm not going to sign off again," Cruse said. "Of course, the City Council can override my veto, but I can't conscientiously justify that stop sign being there."

alyses about revenue. And ultimately said, "There shall be a lottery." At that time, the clergy opposed it.

Gitchoff, who said he was a member of Madison's First Congregational Church, said he knew many residents were worried that Madison might return to its former image, which included a reputation for wild, gay, gaudy and unconstitutional. But, Gitchoff said, the Deja Vu would be located nearly three and a half miles from the city proper and Deja Vu and its proposed changes were bringing shame to the city and its residents.

Gitchoff acknowledged that Monday's crowd indicated public opinion was against the proposal, but said it was the duty of the aldermen to go against public opinion for the good of the city.

Pack 122 holds bike safety program

Cub Scout Pack 122 held a bike safety program recently at Niedringhaus School.

Officer K. Miller held the boy scouts' attention with bicycling and pedestrian safety rules, and Patrick Breese from the Bike Shop on Pontoon Road checked the boys' bikes for safety factors. Each boy ran through several obstacle courses and proved he could use his brakes.

Christopher Koesterer at a nearby Tiger Cub, won a safety flag from the bike shop.

Larry Goldberg, a St. Louis attorney representing Deja Vu, said he wanted to warn the city government that, if the proposal was not approved, Stages would file for injunction to stop a trial by challenging the city's obscenity ordinance, which Goldberg said is unconstitutional.

"It was never our intention to put the city through lengthy and protracted litigation," he said.

"We tried to accommodate the city by picking an appropriate location where everyone's rights could be protected."

John Belcourt reaffirmed his intention to fight the proposal "to my last breath" and said he will not back down even if it has to go all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

If that happens, the black robes in court look down and says "Mayor, you and the city done wrong," then so be it," Belcourt said.

"I've been told the obscenity ordinance is not worth the paper it's written on. You can come here telling us to put an amendment in. Take it to court."

Belcourt said he vividly remembers Madison's days of shame and said he grew up with one of the biggest fears of publication about the city as an ugly neighbor. He said, "It's not going to happen again. I'll go to my grave first before I let that happen to our city."

Alain Englehart of Madison said he discussed with Gitchoff about the thought that should be given to public opinion and said the aldermen have a responsibility to represent the people.

Lt. Tom Baker of the Madison Police Department said approval of the proposal would bring "prostitutes, pimps and drags" and signal a return to the "bad old days of Madison."

when prostitution and gambling were rife and farcens never closed.

Then, Biegel said, every law within a hundred miles came to Madison, attracted by the vice.

"If you want a return to law enforcement by sawed-off shotguns and pick handle, this proposal is the way to do it," Biegel said.

Biegel said more than a quarter of the Madison Police reports involving bars come from Stages now, if not more. "It's getting worse."

Madison Police Chief Charlie Bridick said he doubted the revenue for the city would be as great as predicted and said it would not pay for the extra police protection the change would require.

Bridick also doubted the club's plan for 35 security officers, saying, "Not one of my officers has said he will go out there and work part-time. Not one of them wants this club."

Troop 204 takes train trip

Girl Scout Troop 204 of Franklin School took a trip last month on the Amtrak Superliner to the Alton station to Springfield, Ill.

The troop arrived at the Lincoln Railroad Depot, then on to the Illinois State Capitol for a guided tour. They visited the Abraham Lincoln-Herndon Law Office for a slide show and tour, then on to the Old State Capitol for a guided tour.

"At the conclusion of the tour, the scouts were presented with a copy of the Gettysburg Address in the handwriting of President Abraham Lincoln."

Next the troop visited the Lincoln Home Visitor Center for a film on the Lincoln Shrine and story of much of Lincoln's life in Springfield.

Then on to the Lincoln Home National Historic Site where photos were taken in a horse-drawn carriage ride through the restored nineteenth-century environment of Springfield.

Next, they visited the Illinois State Museum and saw one of the world's largest ice Age mastodons as well as a collection of Illinois' natural and cultural treasures.

The girls completed all the requirements for the Lincoln Heritage trail; the girls were presented with the trail patch by Fred Wallace Scout Executive of the Alton Area Council Boy Scouts of America.

To finish the trip the scouts were treated to pizza at Joe Gallino's Pizza and Restaurant.

Veterans honored by post, scouts

In remembrance of veterans on May 30, VFW Post 7451 of Madison and Auxiliary and Boy Scout Troop 12 from Granite City gathered to place flags on each veteran's grave at the St. John's Cemetery in Granite City.

A flag ceremony by various veterans' groups from the Quad City Area followed the placement of the flags.

Boy Scouts in attendance were Jerry Wright, Donald Mosley, Jason Cousins, Tim Bosworth, Steve Mumme, Tim Mumme, Michael Dollar, David Pritchett, Joshua Engleman, Eddie Loftis and Michael Rabing.

Granite Citian inducted

Patricia A. Massey of Granite City was one of 114 students recently inducted into the University chapter of Alpha Sigma Nu, the national honor society of American Jesuit Colleges and Universities.

Founded in 1915, membership in Alpha Sigma Nu is one of the highest honors that can be bestowed on a student. Inductees must have at least a 3.5 grade point average, completed 60 credit hours of class work and demonstrated commitment to the Jesuit ideals of scholarship, loyalty and service.

$200 million Scott Base expansion may begin soon

By Christopher Knight
Correspondent

The $60-million Scott Air Force Base state bond agreement is expected to secure $154 million in federal airport money, officials said Thursday.

The funds are to be used to build a commercial aviation runway, taxways, aircraft ramps and a terminal recording to Gov. Jim Edgar's staff.

Land purchasing, grading and relocating of military houses are now projected to begin later this year. Commercial airline service could get to the airport in 1996.

"We really got the ball rolling," State Rep. Monroe Flinn, D-Cahokia, said. "It will bring the federal dollars and show investors that Illinois is serious about attracting business and jobs."

"I've been working toward this for a long time and it is very gratifying to see this long hard process come to a successful conclusion."

Jobless benefits are boosted

SPRINGFIELD — The state's unemployment compensation system will change in January to benefit both the unemployed and employers.

The measure was negotiated by major business and union leaders Wednesday. Gov. Jim Edgar has given indications he will sign the bill.

Workers in the unemployment line and the companies whose payroll they pay—the benefits were able to walk away winners because of a surplus of more than $1 billion in the unemployment trust fund.

The new law taking effect in January will boost benefits by an estimated $233 million a year and reduce future tax liabilities for companies by the same projected amount.

Maximum weekly unemployment compensation will be increased from $214 to $223 a week.

The new top benefit for a single worker rises from $214 to $223 a week from $249 to $259 for an unemployed worker with a jobless spouse, and for someone with dependent children from $279 to $290.

Development officials have said the runway that would serve the public with all sizes of passenger airplanes would bring air transport jobs, passenger service jobs and jobs at storage facilities that would locate near the airport.

Construction that would employ workers in St. Clair, Du Quoin and elsewhere would offer opportunities to many area unions, providing jobs for workers such as pipefitters and electricians.

Another benefit might be the possibility of creating jobs through a McDonnell Douglas plant that would produce large passenger planes. The proposed plant would produce large passenger planes. The proposed plant would produce large passenger planes.

Lawmakers said Gov. Edgar, who agreed to back the airport plan to create several thousand jobs, had no construction and spans economic development in the Metro East area.

Eagles third at Valmeyer

Can't get by Buds in semis; beat Millstadt, East Alton

By Tony Panizzo
Staff writer

One week after splitting a double-header with the Waterloo Buds, the Eagles met Waterloo again Saturday with a chance to advance to the Valmeyer Mid-Summer Classic title game.

Instead, Granite City took a 9-4 loss and settled for a 7-3 victory over East Alton in the replacement game Sunday. Granite City manager Darin DePew said this was an acceptable finish for the Eagles' second Saturday.

"Of course we'd like to be the champions," DePew said.

"But we didn't play very well against Waterloo. It wasn't that we played badly, they just outhit us. We hit the ball better today."

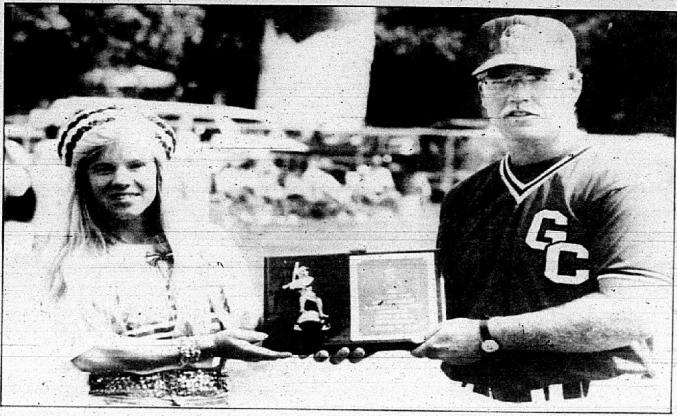

The Eagles rallied for four runs in the fourth inning against East Alton pitcher Dennis Evans to take a 6-6 lead for starter and winner Jamie Needham.

Rick Takmajian had an RBI single. Jeff Stevens drove in two runs with a double and Jamie Hogan accounted for the final run with a triple.

Jamie and Tim Hogan sparked the Eagles offense. Jamie went 2-for-4 with a double and 4-for-4 with two runs scored. Joe Wallace also drove in two runs.

"That's the way it's been most of the season," DePew said. "When we're playing well, (the Hogs) usually get on and make things happen for the middle of our lineup."

John Moad added an insurance run in the bottom of the seventh inning with his third home run of the tournament to make it 7-3. The Silver Bullets had scored two runs off reliever Drake Marshall in the top half of the 13th inning. Marshall, on loan from the Indians, pitched the final three innings of the record-saving game.

On Friday, the Eagles defeated Millstadt 3-2 in 13 innings to advance to Saturday's game against Waterloo. Mike Nordstrom's infield hit scored DePew with the winning run. Incredibly, Mark Terhaar pitched all 13 innings to get the win. Millstadt outhit the Eagles 13-9, but stranded 15 runners after taking nearly all the hits.

In Saturday's game, Moad had two solo homers, but the Buds touched Darin Hendrickson for seven runs and eight hits in just over three innings. John Baxmeyer (three RBIs) and Jim Wahlgren (two) homered, while Mike Wirth also had two RBIs and Mike Moehle walked for 5. The Buds rallied in the 13th and winning pitcher Duane Burris limited the Eagles to five.

Junior Triplets pressed for time, still make semifinals

By Brian Heyen

A little more time and a little less rain. That might have provided different results for the Junior Triplets last weekend in the Ellisville Tournament of Champions.

Granite City -6-9 reached the semifinals of the 25-team tournament before bowing out to Louisville (Ky.) 9-5 on Sunday. The Junior Triplets led 5-3 in the ninth inning, but an all-star team composed of players from four high schools stormed back to win.

"We played right before that game and we were already deep into our pitching," said Post 113 manager Doug Gammill.

We wanted to make a pitching change, but the time limit put us in a bind. If we would have made a change, we wouldn't have had time to hit.

All of the games were played with an hour-and-a-half time limit, which meant most games

Andy Pierce outduels Malone for holiday win at speedway

Andy Pierce won an intense duel with Chris Malone to claim the 1992 Bob Tattersall Memorial for MARA midgets at Tri-City Speedway on Saturday.

Malone took the lead at the start and looked like a sure winner until late in the race, when lapped traffic allowed Pierce to make his move.

"It was really flying tonight," said Pierce, almost apologetically. "I was unfortunate he got caught up in the lapped cars and gave me a chance."

Steve Knappier of Belleville, usually the dominator at Tri-City, finished third in the main event followed by Kevin Olson and Tim Siner.

David Hunt took the semi-feature. The heat races were won by Olson, Pierce and Danny Frye Jr., who took a hard tumble during the feature but quickly crawled unharmed from his overturned car.

The Independence Day show also offered mississippian championships for Tri-City's weekly racing classes and produced four winners.

Mark Utley earned his first feature of the season and moved into second place in points in the Clark Oil UMP late model feature. Tom Utley earned his first Tri-City trophy of the year. Ed Barnes, who had previously held his season points lead by finishing second in both races, Charlie Smith, leading a close battle for the Sked Bandit-Racing IMCA midget championship, clinched further ahead of beaten fellow contenders Dave Jones and Alan Miles to the finish line. Rick Carter and Donnie Hightower were the other winners.

John Rhoades led his team in Mello Yello Pro Stock standings with a feature victory over Pat Ryan. Rick Rhoades was third.

Triplets regain form with 2 District wins

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

The 1991 Triplets didn't have much up and down. But the 1992 version is burning about life on a roller coaster.

While it was a smooth ride most of last summer, Ralph Burnett is fighting to keep things together as playoff time approaches. Post 113 has picked up the pace with three wins last week, including a couple of exciting wins over East St. Louis and Smithton.

Post 113 is 13-10-1 in District 22 play and has strengthened its hold on first place. They are 16-5 overall heading into tonight's home game against Wood River.

The Triplets rallied from a 6-0 deficit to upend East St. Louis 6-4 at Jones Park on July 2. Catcher John Cozair delivered the winning hit in a three-run seventh.

"The players won that on their own," said Burnett. "I really didn't do a very good job of managing."

Chris Hill (4-1) got the win with two innings of hitless relief. Ben Hicks started and spotted East St. Louis the 5-0 lead.

"Ben wasn't bad at all," said Burnett. "He had some problems in one inning, but they only had one real good hit out of all of that. But Chris was pretty close to untouchable."

Cozair Dochwat

That was a good thing, because the Triplets were in a hurry to get out of East St. Louis. It was getting dark and the rains, which drenched the area Thursday night, were about to unload.

"Mike Dochwat had a huge hit in the (fourth) sixth," said Burnett. "We got three runs and then we had two on and two out. Mike got two strikes and then hit one over the right fielder's head for two runs."

"Sometimes we don't swing the bats real hard, but Mike was really swinging aggressively in recent games. I knew he would start hitting when he got used to the pitcher."

Mike Pierce started the seventh with a bad-hop single. Ryan Reeves, Bobby Wilson and John Cozair followed with hits to plate the deciding runs.

"When we started making outs on purpose," said Burnett, referring to the approaching storms.

Friday's 8-7 win over Smithton was the Jason Maxfield show. Maxfield had four hits. The center fielder had four hits as the Triplets built a big early lead for Joe Rieser (2-0).

Down and dirty — Eagles first baseman John Mordt puts a tag on East Alton's Brian "Pick" Clawson in the third place game of the Valmeyer Tournament on Sunday. Granite City beat the Bon-Air Silver Bullets 10-3.

Fishermen arrive a day late

How many times have you been fishing and been told, "You should have been here yesterday."

That's exactly what happened to us last weekend. Mark Twain Lake is quite a fish factory just 2½ hours north of the metro area, so Gail and I were looking forward to an action-packed weekend with Ron and Carol Weller. We were excited to catch the bass, although the ladies also thought a little about crappie.

We got to the lake Friday evening and tried to hit the top water as the dark sun expectations for the weekend really zoomed. I caught three largemouths, including two keepers (Mark Twain has a 15-inch minimum length limit on bass in a very short time), while Gail lost one nice bass.

We started out twitching Sluggo-style topwaters, the so-called "soft stick baits" which are made of soft, bendable plastic. These lures, including the Sluggo, Scissor Tail, Bass Assassin, Jerk, and a bevy of others, are fished with a weight — just enough hook weight — to keep the hook from swiveling up the line about 10 inches to prevent line twist.

The bass grab the bait and head for deep water. You have to set the hook hard, but only after you feel the fish. Gail didn't get a good hookset.

However, my other two fish came in a different way. Others weren't doing the flippin'. Mark Twain is full of dissolved timber and brush; conditions made for the flippin' technique. What made this fun was that it was the only opportunity I had to try out a new rod-and-reel combo I received as a birthday gift. The rod is Duwaa's model TD-76T 4FB. Flippin' Pitchin' stick designed by Denny Bruch. The real with a flippin' switch.

I have other flippin' and pitchin' rods and reels, which I like. But I must admit this outfit loaded with 25-pound-test monofilament ranks right up there. That's because I like to expect pro bass angler Dennis Bruch of Camdenton, Mo., so much. But I think it is because I appreciate great action, super feel and results.

I was flippin' and pitchin' alternately, depending upon the targets available. The flip is a vertical presentation, in close and usually at the top, next to the boat. The pitch is an underhand swing cast which reaches out to 30 feet or so. The pitch is more of a horizontal presentation as the lure sinks and swims back toward the boat.

I was using a Larew Salt Craw, blades with red metal flake, on a 4/0 hook with a 1/8th-ounce slip sinker. The first bass was suspended in the top of a chilly temperatures, mist and high winds greeted us. There were boats everywhere we tried to fish. One boat told us they caught fish earlier from 6 to 7 a.m. and 10 a.m. They were using plastic worms, but then it quit. It stayed quit for us all day.

Ron finally caught a 15-inch bass with a Jerk Worm late Saturday evening. I, however, one and missed a couple on a big mud craw in the morning, but put nothing in the boat.

Sunday dawned very chilly. The clouds were Red Man Bass Tournament on their way so we slept in and took our time getting onto the water. The ladies took minnows and crappie fished. They caught a couple of small ones.

Ron and I continued to chunk and wind; trying topwaters, plastic worms and crawfish, grubs and we considered dynamite. I'm sure some of the guys in the tournament had a few fish.

But I did get to test a second-new rod-and-reel — a Zebco Quantum Tournament Edition 6½-foot model TS664F medium-action spinning rod and companion Quantum Express Long Stroke SE3 reel.

I got this outfit for grubs and tube baits, but it also works fine for lightning-fast plastic worm fishing — great feel, good rod backbone but some tip and super castability. Unfortunately, I can't say how it handles fish.

If you caught fish every day, you'd soon get bored with fishing. I'll keep telling myself that.

Well, we were there yesterday — just over an hour and a half — and it was hot. And next time maybe we'll be there for all of yesterday.

(Bill Seibel writes an outdoors column for the Suburban Journal.)

cedar tree in about 15 feet of water. It hit the lure about 3 feet under and came out of the same hole I had dropped the lure into. I set the bass on a piece of a stump about 10 feet away. I had pitched the lure to the stump, allowed it to sink about 3 feet to the bottom and twirled the rod. When the similar tap-top telegraphed up the line and down the sensitive rod.

As we loaded the boats and headed for the resort, I was thinking about similar spots around the lake for Saturday and Sunday. Ha!

On Saturday, cloudy skies, they have a slight chance to contend for the division title. They are 12-4 while the Buds are 10-2. The City has eight games left and Waterloo six. That includes a double-header between the two teams in Waterloo on July 29.

"This is where it gets tough," says Buds manager Jim DePew. "It will test some people. Everybody seems to be having fun."

Joe May, WINU get night signal

By Scott Marion
Staff writer

All the mouth of preparation caused by an unexpected fire at Highland radio station WINU—which will dedicate much of its programming to sports—will finally be broadcasted at night.

"That is where it gets tough," says WINU program director and DePew. "It will test some people. Everybody seems to be having fun."

The Eagles host Sauget this Sunday in a 1:30 double-header at Maxwell Field.

they only went six innings. Rain on Friday canceled two games for the Junior Triplets, which meant they had to cram four games into three days.

"When you get that far you'd think they'd give you more time to play," said Winfield. "We just ran out of gas in that last game."

Eric Tongay started against Louisville and only lasted three batters before exiting with a sore arm. Chad Dooley (1-1) came in to finish the game. Granite City led 10-3 coming back to take a 5-3 lead. Louisville scored three in the fourth and three more in the sixth to win.

The Junior Triplets opened Saturday with a 3-2 win over Mehville. Jeff Ridenour (4-0) started and struck out 13 in six innings. He also went 3 for 4 with two RBIs. Dooley pitched the final three relief for the win as Granite City secured in the bottom of the seventh.

In their second game Saturday against St. Louis Granite City beat the Rams 10-3. They won the first game 13-3 in the sixth and scored four runs as they won 5-2. Mark Winfield pitched five innings for the win and Tongay came in for the save.

In their quarterfinal game on Sunday, Granite City beat Columbia, Md., packing by winning 8-4. Jason Talley (7-13) was 13 in the tournament. He went 3 for 3 and Andy Roe and Craig Harriet each had two hits. The offensive attack, Jason Blas (4-2) pitched 3 1/3 innings for the win and Ridenour picked up his first save of the year.

It was always somebody different coming through, he said. Winfield. "Before, we were getting runners on and not getting them home. In this tournament we were hitting the ball well, people at base."

The Junior Triplets began a pivotal stretch of eight league games this week with an 8-5 win in Cahokia on Monday night. Granite City got out to an 8-0 lead after three innings. Winfield had three RBIs, and Talley and Brian Kohler scored two runs apiece to lead the early barrage.

Brian Pierce started for the Junior Triplets and had an interesting performance. He fanned eight but also walked eight. He was hit in the head in the third, but struck out the side.

Sean Lakatos (1-0) got the win by pitching 2 2/3 innings of one-hit relief. Winfield picked up his first save by pitching the seventh.

"Jeff doesn't have the velocity to throw it by hitters up in the strike zone. The difference between him being effective and getting hit is a couple inches off the start line," said Wood River tonight. "Because he was kind of feeling bad after Friday."

Hill came on again to get the save against Smithton. After tonight's 3 p.m. home game, Post 113 travels to Evansville, Ind., for a five-team tournament over the weekend.

"We brought Jeff Miller in with an 8-2 lead and he was going against the good part of Smithton's order," said Burnett.

"They got five runs on Jeff, but we had a very good defense behind him. We messaged up on a double steal and both of their runners scored."

Two celebrate silver jubilees

Two Sisters of Divine Providence celebrated their silver jubilees on June 27 at the community's Motherhouse in Normandy, Mo. The jubilarians were Sister Sharon Racker and Sister Barbara McMullen.

Sister Sharon Racker, a native of Wardsville, near Jefferson City, Mo., entered the Sisters of Divine Providence in 1964 and professed her vows in 1967. She earned her bachelor's degree from Marillac College and her master of ministry degree from Seattle University. Sister Sharon has served 21 years as an educator.

She taught at St. John's School in Imperial, Mo., North American Martyrs in Florissant, Mo., Ascension School in Normandy, Mo., Marymount High School in Madison, Ill., Mount Providence School in Normandy and St. Thomas the Apostle School in Florissant.

Along with teaching, she tutored English to the 4th, 7th and 8th grades at St. Thomas the Apostle School. Sister Sharon is currently serving on the Leadership Team of the Sisters of Divine Providence, a position she has held since 1986.

Sister Barbara McMullen, a native of Madison, entered the Sisters of Divine Providence in 1967. She earned her bachelor's degree from Marillac College and her master's degree is in religious education from Seattle University.

Sister Barbara served as an elementary teacher at St. Mary-St. Mark's School in Madison, St. John's School in Imperial, Mount Providence School in Normandy and Ascension School in Normandy.

More recently, she served at St. Elizabeth Parish in Granite City in the areas of adult education, parish ministry, and liturgy. In the fall, Sister Barbara will be beginning her new position as pastoral associate at St. Matthew Parish in Alton.

Sister Barbara has also served the community of the Sisters of Divine Providence in the capacity of formation director and served on the Leadership Team from 1986 to 1990. She developed the lay associate program for the community and currently serves as its director.

The Sisters of Divine Providence, founded in Mainz, Germany, in 1851, is an international community, with three provinces in the United States.

BrieflyYouths attend aerospace program

Four Madison youths recently participated in a week-long Aerospace Academy held at Parks College of St. Louis University in Cahokia.

Attending were Adam Vrabeck, son of Michael and Barbara Vrabeck; Amber Sipes, daughter of Delbert and Marsha Sipes; Heather Hargan, daughter of Vickie and Margaret Behling; and Karen Byrd, daughter of Tom and Linda Byrd.

The campers, who will enter grades seven through nine this fall, attended orientation sessions on aerospace and aviation-related topics including avionics, aircraft maintenance engineering, pre-flight and air traffic control.

Local student honored

Dr. Helen Elsner, vice president of educational affairs and dean of the university, has announced that Christopher Miskell of Granite City has been awarded the honor of magna cum laude for the 1992 spring semester at Teikyo Marycrest University in Davenport, Iowa.

Attends Scholars Program

Jamie Holder, a 5th grade student at Parkview Elementary School in Granite City, recently joined students from as far away as Georgia and California, spending two weeks of their summer on the campus of MacMurray College in Jacksonville, Ill., participating in the college's 12th annual Prairie Scholars Program.

The design of the gifted program is to provide a stimulating environment filled with challenges for students who have proven to be academic achievers.

Eulouise Williams, director of the Prairie Scholars Program, said that working with gifted students is "like opening a new present. They are excited about everything."

Straying from typical lecture format teaching style, the program is designed to get students involved in learning and in enhancing their existing intellectual curiosities. A major goal is to make learning fun.

2 Murray State students perfect

Mitchell Randall and James Robertson from Madison County have earned recognition on the Murray State University 'Ky. dean's list with a perfect scholastic standing for the 1992 spring semester.

Also on the dean's list from Madison County are Kenneth Ashlock and Christol Leichsenring.

A total of 1,365 undergraduate students with grade point averages ranging from 3.30 to a perfect 4.0 are included on the dean's list.

Ridlen makes dean's list at Monmouth

Named to dean's list

Jennifer Ridlen, a senior chemistry major from Granite City has been named to the Monmouth College dean's list for the fall semester.

To be named to the Dean's List a student must achieve at least a 3.6 grade-point average on a four-point scale, while carrying a full-course load.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Ridlen.

FAMILYSIUE students receive honors

More than 850 students at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville were recognized for academic achievement on Wednesday, May 6, at a special Honors Day convocation in the University Center.

For Honors Day recognition, students must have a grade-point average of 3.50 or better (3.0 is equivalent to "B"; 4.0 to "A"). In addition, students must have completed and passed at least 24 calculated hours of study at an acceptable college. Students with a grade-point average of 3.90 or above are indicated by an asterisk (*). Effective April 13, the university converted from a five-point to a four-point scale.

Approximately 250 special awards were given to SIUE students.

Names of recipients are listed alphabetically by their hometown:

Ear plugs make statement on pool fashion

With warm weather here and swimming pools in use, it may be time for new swim plugs. The Audiology Department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center is prepared.

Audiology offers neon customized swim plugs.

These floatable ear plugs are available in fluorescent green, blue, orange, purple, yellow, red, or brown, and colors may be mixed or matched. The plugs are also available in a tie-dye variety in which two of the colors are combined.

Kids are likely to wear them more often if they like them," said Cheryl Siegel Grieves, MS, director of Audiology. "A lot of times kids like the colors to match their swimming suits."

Children are not the only ones who benefit from the new ear plugs. They are considered an effective method of sealing the ear from water when those individuals are "swimmer's ear," or with eardrum perforations.

They also are helpful to people who don't like to get water in their ears.

In addition to being floatable, the bright colors make them easier to find in the water.

The plugs have built-in handles and attachable cords, allowing users to hang them around their neck.

They can be used for sound protection, when working with power tools or noisy machinery. It's a very comfortable way to help protect your ears from possible permanent noise-related damage," said Sheila Kutz, MS, audiologist dispensing coordinator.

The new plugs are formed from a medical-grade silicone material which offers flexibility as well as softness. Such features are said to make the plugs last longer over a prolonged period of time.

To get custom-fit ear plugs, an appointment must be made to form a mold of the ear. The ear canals are inspected and checked for any problems.

An impression of the ear is then made using a soft, pliable material. It is a painless procedure, and takes approximately five minutes.

The impression is returned from the manufacturer in two to three weeks. The customized plugs have a smooth, non-abrasive surface and easily remediate any problems with the fit.

This procedure is performed at Audiology's Edwardsville and Granite City locations. To make an appointment or for more information, the Audiology Department can be called at 798-3616.

Pre-schoolers receive more TLC

The Education Resources Department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center—Granite City, is giving more and more TLC these days.

"The demand for our Tender Loving Bear Care Clinics has increased due to greater public awareness and Cindy Johnson, RN, BSN, community education coordinator.

"During 1991, 250 pre-school children participated in the program. In the months of March and April, we had 190 children."

This year, the number of pre-schoolers in the program is expected to reach over 400, according to Johnson.

Because of the increased demand, more nurse volunteers are needed to assist with clinics.

The 90-minute health and safety educational program is designed to meet the needs of pre-school children. It teaches children what a nurse does, what will happen to them when they go to the hospital or the emergency room, and about jobs in a medical center.

"We explain and demonstrate common medical procedures in order to lessen a child's anxiety and fears," Johnson said.

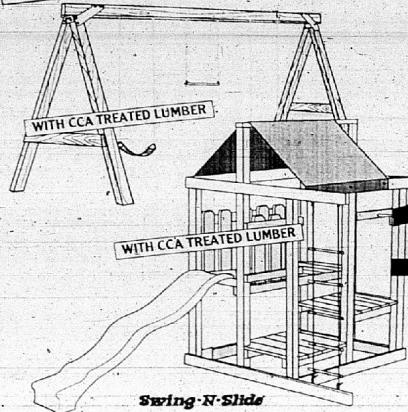

In the class, children are asked to bring a teddy bear or a stuffed animal which they can bandage. The child is given a parenting information packet containing basic first aid information to take home.

Although classes are on hold over the summer, Johnson said it is important for SEMC nurses to volunteer now to help with clinics which will be held in the fall.

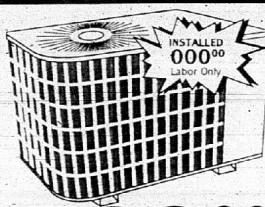

"I have had nurses from Obstetrics, the Nursery and one nurse who demonstrated how an electrocardiogram works, which the children really loved," Johnson said.

"But any department can volunteer. Volunteer nurses always enjoy the time spent with the children, and a very rewarding time that I hope SEMC nurses will experience."

"The clinic is good for us. It not only educates children on the importance of health care, but allows parents to see us as a resource for health education."

Food

DON'T DESERT DESSERT

By Janice Denham
Staff Writer

Sunflowers—a perfect backdrop for dessert. The luscious finale can be a feast in itself, as simple as a slice of gelatin or a piping-juicy watermelon.

At the other extreme, it can be as ornate as a cake decorated with plastic groomsman and bridesmaids marching along a sun-watery border, served by champagne flutes.

Having your cake and eating it, too, is as simple as offering eye-catching variety in specific pieces of different quantity counts. Set the table like an artist's canvas with a few especially delectable desserts and a few basics to finish off the meal.

Makes eight (1/2-cup) servings; 130 calories, 6 g protein, 25 g carbohydrate, less than 1 g fat, less than 5 mg cholesterol and 80 mg sodium each.

COCOA-banana freeze
1/2 cup cocoa
1/2 cup sugar
1 can (12 oz.) evaporated skim milk
1/4 cup light or dark corn syrup
1 ripe medium banana, mashed
1 carton (8 oz.) plain nonfat yogurt

In medium saucepan, stir together cocoa and sugar. Add evaporated skim milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Remove from heat. Stir in corn syrup. Cool. Add banana and yogurt. Stir with wire whisk until well blended. Refrigerate several hours until cold.

Pour cold mixture into 1-quart container of ice cream freezer. Freeze according to manufacturer's directions.

Makes eight (1/2-cup) servings; 130 calories, 6 g protein, 25 g carbohydrate, less than 1 g fat, less than 5 mg cholesterol and 80 mg sodium each.

The tablecloth can be elegant lace or taffeta linens, or it can be a carefree floral sheet pressed into table service.

Magical colors come the food with pitchers of daisies and geraniums or sets of bowls of exotic roses and lilies from the garden or the florist edged with baby's breath.

Dazzling desserts need not destroy one's desire to keep a light attitude toward food during the warm summer months. A single slice of cake with its intense sweet flavor with luscious fresh summer fruit, bring a touch of chocolate flavor with cocoa and use fat only when necessary. Because the fat already has been cut, do not try to decrease it further for best results.

This dessert table is just the beginning of the party. Look for other practical, summer-light recipes from these sources:

FUDGEY banana brownie cake

3 extra-ripe medium bananas
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup light or dark corn syrup
1/2 cup buttermilk
2 cups flour
2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup cocoa
1/2 cup baking soda
1/2 cup salt
2 eggs
1/2 cup oil
1/2 cups sour cream
1/2 cups hour

Preheat oven to 350°. Spray 12-cup tube pan with nonstick cooking spray.

In blender, purée bananas to yield 1 1/2 cups. In mixing bowl, beat together sour cream, oil, buttermilk, oil and vanilla. In large mixer bowl, stir together flour, sugar, cocoa, baking soda and salt. Add banana mixture to flour mixture. Beat until well-blended. In small mixer bowl, beat egg whites until stiff. Fold small amount into batter. Fold in remaining egg whites. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake in preheated oven 45-50 minutes until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes. Invert cake on wire rack. Cool completely.

Place on serving plate. Pour Banana Fudge Topping over cake.

Banana Fudge Topping: In blender, pure 1 extra-ripe small banana to yield 1 cup. Add 1/2 cup light corn syrup, 2 tablespoons cocoa and 1 tablespoon margarine; melted. Process until smooth.

Yields 16 servings. 210 calories, 4 g protein, 29 g carbohydrate, 3 g fat, no cholesterol and 160 mg sodium each.

FAT-FREE ginger cake

1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup whole wheat flour
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. ground ginger, if desired
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup low-fat yogurt
2 egg whites
1/2 cup red or light corn syrup
1 tsp. vanilla
Fresh raspberries, if desired

Preheat oven to 350°. Spray 9-inch square baking pan with nonstick cooking spray.

In large bowl, stir together all-purpose flour, whole wheat flour, cornstarch, baking powder, ginger, cinnamon and salt. In medium bowl, using wire whisk, combine sugar and milk. Add egg whites, corn syrup and liquid mixture to flour mixture, stirring with whisk until blended.

Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake in preheated oven 30 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pan to wire rack. Cool completely.

Serve with raspberries. Garnish as desired.

Makes 8 to 10 servings. 110 calories, 2 g protein, 25 g carbohydrate, no fat or cholesterol and 110 mg sodium each.

CHOCOLATE swirled cheesecake

2 lbs. graham cracker crumbs
1 pkg. (8 oz.) neufchatel (light cream) cheese, softened
1/2 tsp. vanilla
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup cornstarch
1 carton (8 oz.) frozen yogurtless egg product, thawed
1/2 cup cocoa
1/2 tsp. almond extract

Preheat oven to 325°.

Spray bottom of 9- or 9 1/2-inch springform pan with nonstick cooking spray. Sprinkle graham cracker crumbs evenly in bottom of pan.

In large mixer bowl, using medium-speed of electric mixer, beat yogurt cheese, neufchatel cheese and vanilla until smooth. Add sugar and cornstarch. Beat just until well blended. Gradually add egg product, beating on low speed for 1 minute.

Transfer 1 1/2 cups mixture to medium bowl. Add cocoa. Beat until well blended. Stir almond extract into remaining vanilla mixture. Spoon mixtures alternately into prepared pan. With knife or metal spatula, cut through mixtures for marbled effect. Bake in preheated oven 35 minutes for 9-inch pan or 40 minutes for 9 1/2-inch pan.

Remove from oven. With knife, loosen cake from side of pan. Cool completely. Remove side of pan. Refrigerate, covered, about 6 hours.

When ready to serve, remove from refrigerator and run a narrow, sharp knife around edge of cake. Place colander over deep bowl. Spoon one 1/4-inch carton plain low-fat yogurt into prepared colander. Cover with plastic wrap. Refrigerate about 4 hours. Remove yogurt from colander. Discard liquid.

Makes 16 servings. 100 calories, 4 g protein, 23 g carbohydrate, less than 1 g fat, less than 1 mg cholesterol and 10 mg sodium each.

FRESH FRUIT with creamy tropical topping

2 bananas, sliced
2 oranges, sliced
2 kiwi fruit, sliced
2 cups fresh pineapple
2 cups halved strawberries cup red grapes
cup green grapes
Creamy Tropical Topping
Fresh mint, if desired

Preheat oven to 350°. Spray 9-inch square baking pan with nonstick cooking spray.

In large bowl, stir together all-purpose flour, whole wheat flour, cornstarch, baking powder, ginger, cinnamon and salt. In medium bowl, using wire whisk, combine sugar and milk. Add egg whites, corn syrup and liquid mixture to flour mixture, stirring with whisk until blended.

Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake in preheated oven 30 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pan to wire rack. Cool completely.

Serve with raspberries. Garnish as desired.

Makes 8 to 10 servings. 180 calories, 4 g protein, 31 g carbohydrate, no fat or cholesterol and 90 mg sodium each.

In large bowl, combine bananas, orange, kiwi, pineapple, strawberries and grapes. Serve with Creamy Tropical Topping. Garnish with mint, if desired.

Creamy Tropical Topping: In medium bowl, crush 1/2 cup fresh pineapple juice, 1/2 cup evaporated skim milk, 1 cup frozen pine-orange banana juice concentrate, thawed, 3 tablespoons grated orange peel, and 2 teaspoons cornstarch. Cook over medium heat, stirring until smooth. Add 1/2 cup low-fat yogurt and 1/2 cup fresh mint, stirring until blended.

Makes 8 to 10 servings. 180 calories, 4 g protein, 31 g carbohydrate, no fat or cholesterol and 90 mg sodium each.

Fruit soups heroes vs. eating crimes

Good Food
Good Health

As the bounty of fresh summer fruit provides more opportunities for fresh, look at fruit soups. In place of fruit or juice for breakfast, as the first course for brunch or dinner, the centerpiece of a light lunch, or a simple, easy dessert, fruit soups are a delightful way to add more nutritious fruit to summer menus.

There is no secret to making fruit soup. It takes just a blend of oil, good dressing and a few basic ingredients. Peaches, plums, apricots, nectarines and cherries turn into delicious soups. So do all varieties of berries, and even melon, fruit at its best, of course, but frozen or even canned fruit will do in a pinch. Just make sure the fruit is of good quality, since the fruity taste is crucial to summer soups.

Liquids for the soup can be water, skim or nonfat milk, or fruit juice, such as apple or white grape juice. Pureed melon contains a much water that it may need to dilute slightly.

Favorite soup flavorings include sweeteners and spices. Although naturally sweet, fruit can use some additional sugar, honey or artificial sweetener when diluted soups. Popular spices include cinnamon, nutmeg, allspice, cloves and cardamom. When ready to serve, top the soup with a dollop of low-fat yogurt or a splash of fresh fruit.

Strawberry Soup: In Melon Bowls is sweet and light, perfect in the cantaloupe bowls described below or in "real" bowls. It is a refreshing appetizer for luncheon or dinner, but it is sweet enough to be dessert. It is packed with vitamin C from the strawberries and orange juice, and if cantaloupe bowls are used, vitamins A and E, another excellent boost.

More healthful summer recipes are available in the summer volume of "An Ounce of Prevention" cookbook series. To receive a copy, send a check for $6 payable to AICR to American Institute for Cancer Research, Department CB3, Washington, D.C. 20009.

Strawberry soup in melon bowls

1 qt. fresh strawberries, washed, hulled (about 6 cups)
1 cup orange juice
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
Pinch cloves
2 tbsp. plus 2 tsp. sugar
1 tbsp. lemon juice or to taste
1/2 cup skim milk
1 cantaloupe

Puree strawberries with orange juice in blender or food processor. Pour into 4-quart saucepan.

Place remaining strawberries in small cup. Stir in cornstarch until well blended. Return to saucepan. Add cinnamon and cloves. Heat, stirring frequently, until mixture comes to boil. Cook 1 minute longer, while stirring, or until mixture is thickened.

Remove from heat. Stir in lemon juice and sugar. When mixture has cooled slightly, pour milk into large bowl. Gradually add strawberry mixture while stirring constantly. Chill, covered, at least 3 hours.

Cut cantaloupe in half. Scoop out seeds. Turn upside down to drain. Prepare cantaloupe ahead of time; cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate until ready to serve.

To serve, fill melons with chilled soup.

Makes 4 servings: 187 calories with cantaloupe, 116 calories without cantaloupe and 1 g fat each.

Park looks for history garden volunteers

By Scott Toulos

Correspondent

Chesterfield County park is trying to keep alive more than the memory of plants that once flourished in Missouri.

Faust County Park in Chesterfield is seeking volunteers to work in what it calls living-history gardens.

The park is at 15185 Olive Blvd. The project is in conjunction with St. Louis County Parks Department educational programs at Thornhill, the home of Missouri's second governor, Frederick Bates. The home is in the south section of the park.

Volunteers are needed for the continued development of two gardens, one called the new world and old world garden, and the other the living history garden, said project organizers.

The new world and old world garden is centered around educational opportunities for children and adults to learn about the plants and themselves about the necessities of gardening, said Sarah Coppersmith, museums program coordinator. It also is being used for educating children about different plants in natural settings, she said.

Coppersmith said the living history garden is for adults researching and documenting plants that were used for a variety of needs, such as recipes for different foods.

Coppersmith said the program needs gardeners of all ages and abilities for assistance in the continued development of the gardens.

"There will be a variety of duties ranging from hoeing to researching in the gardens," Coppersmith said.

The plants they will work with date to common ones at the turn of the century. Native seeds common in the time America was discovered will also be planted.

Coppersmith enjoys seeing children who are planting seeds for the first time. "Children have great interest in the educational garden, and some of them appear to be lopsided," she said with a laugh.

Anyone interested in volunteering can contact the park at 899-3903 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Work hours for volunteers are flexible.

Maintain plants now to save labor later

An ounce of prevention can help you avoid a backache next year.

Keep weeds from making seed now by pulling them early. This will mean less weeding next year.

You can do some spraying this week to help control some insects. Hollies should receive their final spray for leaf miner control.

More important, be sure to rake up and not compost any fallen leaves. You can also apply a second spray to trunks of peach trees for peach borers.

Birds can be a helpful addition to the garden since they can help keep insects under control. But they also can be pesky when they eat your plants. Cover your flower clusters loosely with paper sacks to provide some protection from marauding birds. Poke a few holes in the sacks so air can crop by July 15.

The hot, dry days of summer are tough on your lawn. Water frequently enough to prevent wilting. Early morning irrigation allows soil to dry before nightfall and will reduce the chance of disease.

The Missouri Botanical Garden's Kemper Center for Home Gardening is open daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The garden center is a new and beautiful gardening display to give you ideas and inspiration. Visit the Plant Doctor, see new tools and techniques for growing plants at home, and learn more about our extensive gardening library. Meet with the Master Gardeners to chat about your gardening questions.

Charlatans may live up to singer's comments

By Alan Sculley
Correspondent

"Oh, God, they'll haunt me forever," said Tim Burgess, lead singer of the British rock band Charlatans UK.

The subject that prompted Burgess' reaction is some of his statements reported by the media about the talents of the Charlatans.

Take for example, this gem from Rolling Stone magazine last year: "We never wanted to be... a dance band or a garage band or a rock band. We just wanted to be the greatest band in the world since The Rolling Stones or The Beatles. And I'm pretty sure we have the potential to actually do it."

Burgess, a soft-spoken sort with a laid-back demeanor, hardly seems the type for such grand pronouncements. Yet every once in awhile, one slips out.

For example take his comment about why he writes all the group's lyrics and why he figures the group only will produce original material.

"Yeah, I don't think I could ever sing someone else's work," Burgess said. "That's why we don't do any cover versions, and I don't think we ever will. I just know that I always felt that our songs were better than everyone else's anyway."

Or consider Burgess' response to a question about whether he felt the Charlatans had something special from the start.

I think there's really just quite an exciting feeling between us, Burgess said. "We always consider ourselves to be better than anybody else. You don't feel that unless there are reasons for thinking that. I still feel that."

Such self-confidence — some have called it arrogance —

'We always considered ourselves to be better than anybody else. You don't feel that unless there are reasons for thinking that. I still feel that.'

— Tim Burgess
Charlatans UK singer

would seem hard to justify, except that over the past year, we're on our way to big things. Of the many groups to emerge from the English music scene over the past several years, "Happy Mondays," Stone Roses, Happy Mondays, Stone Roses, My Bloody Valentine, are just a few of the others the Charlatans have made some of the biggest waves.

The initial version of the Charlatans formed in 1988. Within a year, the band's lineup had stabilized to include Burgess, bassist Martin Blunt, drummer John Brookes, keyboardist Rob Collins and guitarist John Bell.

That lineup released several popular early British singles, including "Indian Rope" and "The Only One Knows" as well as the hit debut album "Some Friendly," a record that generated considerable acclaim. The album landed at the top of Britain's independent charts within days of its release, and eventually was certified as a gold recording.

"Some Friendly" also generated a fair share of attention in the United States, spawning a number of hits in "Overeasy," and earning the band a slot on the cover of Rolling Stone as one of the hot new faces of 1991. This was the album that put the band on the "biggest, greatest band since The Rolling Stones of The Beatles" quote appeared.

Prior to recording the group's current CD, Between 10th & 11th, guitarist Baker left the band and was replaced by Mark Collins (no relation to Rob Collins).

But that hasn't slowed the group down, which recently saw the CD reach the Top 5 on American college charts.

"Between 10th and 11th" was produced by Flood, who has previously worked with U2 and Depeche Mode, and Burgess said the partnership proved to be good for the band.

Burgess said Flood helped the band members find a common ground in their musical ideas evolved into songs. Just as importantly, Burgess said, Flood used his technical talents to give the songs a stronger, more live sounding punch than on "Some Friendly."

The Charlatans are often considered part of the Manchester, England, scene, a breeding ground for many recent British indie rock including Happy Mondays and Stone Roses.

"We've always considered ourselves to be very different,"

Burgess said. "I mean, everyone over there considers us different. I guess we are. And I think basically, we're based in Northwich in Cheshire, only a short distance away from Manchester. And that's why I think the name (and a Charlatans band) was created.

"But secondly, most importantly, the Stone Roses and Happy Mondays made their mark by recording and then built a following through that," he said. "We sort of built our following on live performance. I would say that was how we started it."

One reason for the live appeal is that the Charlatans had trouble generating interest from record labels, a situation that seems ironic considering the band's eventual success.

We gave up sending demo tapes to record companies, trying to get them to play live, playing as often as we could," Burgess said. "And then we brought out a record on our own, out of our own money, and then management — and as soon as we released the record and people saw it did really well; I mean we could have signed to anybody."

The Charlatans UK headline a July 12 concert Mississippi Nights. Tickets for the 11th show are $10 in advance, $12 day of show.

In concert news, The Caldwell with guest Yulee Lovelace and The Blue Tone perform July 4 at the Big Kahuna. Admission is free. Doors open at 2 p.m.

FINANCIAL AID
For People Who Filed
BANKRUPTCY*Dear Friends:

Perhaps you may think that filing bankruptcy has shut you out from ever purchasing a vehicle on credit again — in many cases this is very true. But, here at Charlie Ray's Quality Motors we have arranged with a national financial organization to help finance people like yourself, who have had financial problems. People who need a car AND help getting their credit history back on track.

Call today for a free credit check and you may be able to pick up your car this afternoon. Call us now, and ask for Bill Perkins.
